

Alberta Doctors' Digest

Poetic thoughts from an Alberta doctor

Mystery of life

Sometimes it's just, right,
Sometimes it's corrupt, unfair,
Sometimes it loves like the summer sun on moist skin,
Sometimes it hurts like the bitter cold on icy toes,
Sometimes it hits like the rough waves on the rock,
Sometimes it caresses like the calm blue sea,
Sometimes its short, done in a blink,
Sometimes it declines ending, is lonely, sad,
Sometimes it's filled with joy and laughter,
Sometimes it's a pit of sorrow.

Always a mystery,
Who knows what one gets,
Yet this is life,
One worth the breath.

Help

Sit in the corner
Cold chair
Wait patiently
Posters on the wall
Mental health
Apnea

Help lines

Stare

Mind distressed

Body vibrates

Wonder if there is help

Hope and pray

Mother said go

She will know

To trust

This unknown

Should leave

Keep my secrets

In my soul

Doctor comes in

No white coat

Stethoscope

Seems normal

Voice calm

Looks me in the eye

Smiles

Listens

Ask questions

Silence

Space

Maybe mother was right

Maybe I can share

Maybe I can get help

Let's start here

- Submissions (under 500 words please) can be emailed to pfsp@albertadoctors.org. Please put the phrase "poetry submission" in the subject field of the email.
 - We will acknowledge receipt of your submission. If it is selected for publication, we will work with the editor of ADD to determine when it can be published.
